

BULKING

Your 12-week welcome packet, built for real mass gain: eat more, lift heavy, grow.

Welcome

Welcome to Echelon. You are here to build size, and these 12 weeks are built around a simple, direct approach: a caloric surplus, heavy compound lifting, and progressively more volume. Less about precision, more about building real, total mass.

Your Program At a Glance

Format: A 4-day upper/lower split, higher volume, with minimal conditioning work so your recovery capacity stays reserved for lifting.

Phase	Weeks	What's Happening
1: Base Volume	1-4	Establish your working weights, build volume tolerance.
2: Load	5-8	Progressive overload on your compound lifts, volume holds steady.
3: Peak	9-11	Your heaviest loading block, compound lifts prioritized.
Deload	12	Volume cut about 40 percent, reassess your strength numbers.

How We Work Together

- Your day-by-day training lives in Today's Work inside your Member Portal, log in anytime to see what's next, and mark it complete once you finish.
- Check in honestly. Tell your coach what actually happened, not what you think we want to hear, an honest "I missed two days" helps us adjust; a false "everything's perfect" just delays the fix.
- If something hurts (not just the normal soreness of training), stop, message your coach before your next session, and see a clinician if it does not resolve. Never push through real pain.
- Your plan will change. What you start Week 1 with is not what you will be doing Week 8, that is not the plan failing, that is the plan working.

What Makes Bulking Different

Bulking is the direct, higher-volume path to building size: eat more, lift heavy, grow. It is a simpler approach than precision hypertrophy work, built for a client who wants to add real muscle mass without over-engineering every session.

The Echelon Standard

Every Echelon program is built on the same four things: Structure, a proven system that removes the guesswork; Accountability, coaching and check-ins that keep momentum moving; Commitment, progress earned by returning to the standard, especially when motivation is low; and Faith, strength that starts internally, character and purpose driving everything else. The exercises in front of you are specific to your goal. The standard behind them is the same for every person who trains with us.
